

Endowed Professorship for EXPERIMENTAL AUDIOLOGY according to § 99 (1) Universities Act 2002

MEDIZINISCHE
UNIVERSITÄT
INNSBRUCK

The endowed professorship (extent of employment: 100%) will be assigned to the Department of Hearing, Speech and Voice Disorders (HSV) at the Medical University of Innsbruck. The appointment will commence as soon as possible and will be limited to 5 years. Thereafter, the professorship will be assessed, and, if the evaluation is successful, transferred into a tenured professorship according to § 98 UG (Austrian University Law 2002).

Requirements:

- PhD, MD or a comparable qualification
- An excellent scientific track record (i.e. significant research experience, publications, and proven ability to acquire competitive third-party funding in the field of human hearing and speech perception research)
- A profound concept of the research plans the applicant intends to pursue within the framework of the endowed professorship
- Teaching experience and skills

We offer:

- A well-equipped research infrastructure with a soundproof measurement room, clinical audiometry and the possibility of cooperating with the department's facilities
- Support from the HSV-clinic's personnel resources
- Opportunity for research cooperation with a world leading manufacturer of hearing implants
- Opportunity for interdisciplinary research cooperation with departments and institutes of the Medical University of Innsbruck
- A salary to be negotiated
- Excellent working conditions in a lively scientific community, embedded in the vibrant research environment of Innsbruck
- Support through central service facilities
- Various attractive additional company benefits (including but not limited to excellent support through our service-oriented administration, childcare support, dual career consultation, and an inhouse pension fund in addition to the statutory social insurance)

Application:

The complete application documents in German or English must be sent digitally (pdf files) to: berufungen@i-med.ac.at

Deadline for submissions is November 30, 2022 (12:00 p.m. CET).

Non-EU citizens must fulfil the relevant Austrian legal requirements regarding residence and work permits. Applicants are not entitled to compensation for travel expenses with reference to this tender. The Medical University of Innsbruck is an equal opportunity employer.
